

Bristol And Miami

The Selecter

Cafe on the corner peeling painted sign
Water in the vinegar and it never changes to wine
Causing no fuss just smoking inside
Heavy light bursts in and the shadows rush to hide Then Bristol caught fire
Smell of burning in the air
Everybody listening to the reggae jukebox singer singing Sing on, sing on
Listen to the echo of the street
Sing on, sing on
Listen to the echo of the street Four thousand miles to the west
People only take so much
When surrounded by the best they want to reach out and touch
Miami beach hot and lazy
Sun a yellow ball of light
Hiding invisible men living in a world of white
Bristol and Miami
Where's it gonna be tomorrow
Anytime, anywhere
It's only time we borrow Sun beat down, hot heavy afternoon
Hurricane swept the town, and didn't finish so soon
Black smiles thrown in the dust
Replaced by anger
White grins begin to rust when
They're looking in the face of danger Then Miami caught fire
Smell of burning in the air
Everybody listening to the reggae jukebox singer singing Sing on, sing on
Listen to the echo of the street
Sing on, sing on
Listen to the echo of the street
Black man singing in the heat of the night
Broken dreams just fly away listening to the reggae jukebox singer singing Sing on, sing on
Listen to the echo of the street
Sing on, sing on
Listen to the echo of the street Black man singing in the heat of the night
Broken dreams just fly away
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>