

Return to Serenity

Testament

I'm gonna take you to a place far from here
No one will see us, watch the pain as it disappears
No time for anger, no time for despair
Won't you come with me there's a room for us there This innocent beauty, my words can't describe
This rebirth to purity brings a sullen tear right to your eyes
No time for anger, no time for despair
Please let me take you 'cause I'm already there I'm so alone, my head's my home
I'll return to serenity Rhyme without reason is why children cry
They see through the system that's breeding them just so they die
So please let me take you and I'll show you the truth
Inside my reality we shared in our youth I'm so alone, my head's my home
And I feel so alone, you know at last
I'll return to serenity Now that I've taken you to a place far from here
I really must go back, close your eyes and we'll disappear
Won't you come with me, salvation we'll share
Inside of my head now there's a room for us there I'm so alone, my head's my home
And I feel so alone, you know at last
I'll return to serenity

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>