

Not Gonna Take It

Youth Brigade

it's ok to scream out loud that way you feel so helpless and no one seems to care they say they do but when you need a friend its not their problem they just don't understand now's the time to express your self let them know you're know fool cause they must listen to the rage, that says i'm not gonna take it anymore despair remains the greatest pain today fear and ignorance rule our every move they speak of change revolution and reform no matter what they say at best it stays the same so they try to dissect us now blaming all theat don't agree using words of hate and blame while they steal and cheat and lie and hurt and kill they don't want you they don't need you they don't care about anyone except themselves and their way of life.

Lyrics provided by <https://damlyrics.com/>