Phone Call

The Faint

i've seen you a while now long enough to be close there's some things about you that i should know (i still don't) with all the questions we didn't ask our conversations could never last our moments alone were scarce and few it was just easier to hide the truth if all of our secrets were exposed would we be sharing the same bed how 'bout if i broke the silence first did i hear what you're thinking in your head i need to be talked to, i need to be touched i need you to hold me, i need to feel loved and if i could open up to you maybe i could open you up but instead i got the phone call just thought i'd call to let you know i wanna be alone all night again

maybe you could open up to me we'd do all the things that lovers do i've been meaning to tell you how i feel...
