

The Wedding

The Wedding Bells

Hers on one side, his on the other
One Saturday in June
The organ drones and her cousin's singin'
Just a little bit out of tune Her ex is here and his is too
Something old and borrowed but it's nothing new
It sure came up all of the sudden
Bobby and Judy's weddin' Dean and Ginny, they still ain't speakin'
She's gonna make him do without
There's no denyin' that Carla's cryin'
But what's she cryin' all about? It's all one great big act of contrition
Hugs and kisses with fresh ammunition
So we all retreat with the preacher's blessin'
Bobby and Judy's weddin' So ring them bells, toss that rice
Have yourselves a real nice life
Say those words, recite those vows
Now, don't we all feel better now? Cold beer fountain, cheddar cheese mountain
Pigs-in-a-blanket on the bar
Tim and Eddie got the band back together
But they still can't play their guitars In-laws, outlaws all pull together
To hot-wire, jump-start two hearts forever
Will they make it? Nobody's guessin'
Bobby and Judy's weddin' Dance your dance, eat your cake
Toss your sister, your bouquet
Say goodbye, drive away
Tomorrow is another day All the boys got lost in the whiskey
Daddy fell asleep in his tux
Dean and Ginny, actin' kinda frisky
Thinkin' about makin' up Mamma and the womenfolk back in the kitchen
They're all laughin' and Carla's still bitchin'
As for me I'm glad I saw it all
Even the parts that I can't recall It sure was great to be with all of ya'll
Bobby and Judy's wedding
It sure was great to be with all of ya'll
Bobby and Judy's wedding Bobby and Judy's wedding
Bobby and Judy's wedding
