Watch Me Drown

Scars Of Life

Although my mind is open, my heart is tightly closed with all the hate that holds me, I wish I didn't own for all the years that pass by, I know I should have changed how can one man sever, the links that make these chainsAnd then I see...what my life should beIm here dying for another chance to make this right with the guilt I feel I try to piece together my lifeAnd I wish for more then I could Ever give to you... and I know that you dont need the hell I put you through...Im here with my hands open, confused on what to do I wish that I could take back, the words I've said to you And your eyes widen to tell me, how you should have seen Your mouth spills out all the words you didn't mean.YOU STAND AND WATCH ME DROWN!!

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/