A Million Lights

Watching for Wonder

All the lights are going down, and now your whisper is growing loud, and I hear.
All the stars are coming out, and i feel like I'm breaking down under all the weight of it all.

I am breaking as i watch the stars like a painting in the sky. They shine in the dark like love. Like love.

The clouds open up like a curtain I don't believe I've ever been so certain before.
And all these hearts open up, and all these eyes are looking up to you. To you.

I am breaking as i watch the stars like a painting in the sky. They shine in the dark like love. Like love.
We, so fragile, hide under the table, help us. Help me shine in the dark like stars.
I am breaking as I watch the stars like a painting in the sky. They shine in the dark like love.
We, so fragile, got my heart packed up in a bag, I won't open up. Help me shine in the dark like stars. Like stars.

There's a million different stars all lighting up the dark, as a million different hearts with a million different scars stand and stare.
That's a million different lights all burning like the sun, as a million different lives, all built with careful lies stand and stare.

There's a million different hearts, breaking from this broken world, there's a million different souls, waiting, wanting something more, as the stars are in the sky, I feel you opening my eyes to it all(2x)

I feel I feel you calling me to shine, to shine, like stars.

Lyrics Submitted by Omi

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/