

Daedalus Rising

Death in June

There, over there
Has gone, goes and will go
 The copper sun
Tarnishes with the year's tears
The golden golden copper sun
 Old eldest dead
Over the blue milky seasky
 Loss and lost and losing
 Do not wept
 All this is passing
All the birds wing and fall
 Through the heavens
 The cloudy clouds
Of snow of dew and of smoke
 A shuddering reflection
Vanishing with the dropped stone
 Oh, I wait under the spaces
 Under the molten starrain
 The flashing falling planets
 Do not wept
 All this is passing
 So high I could come
 So far I shall fall
 Daedalus broken
 Daedalus falling
 By the toothstones
 His shapes bends
 And makes s smiling bow
 He careers and spiral down
 Falls
He waves words of farewell
 "Oh, do not weep
 All of this passing
 To fail is human
 To fall is human
 To hope is human
 Do not weep
As the sound disappears
 As the rain falls

As the sky parts
As my tears fall
Do not weep
I shall wait for you"
Daedalus broken
Daedalus falling
Do not wept
All this is passing...
