Identity Crisis

Screeching Weasel

you got an identity crisis who are you and what do you believe and why do you care what i think well i believe that you're taking up space so make up your mind right now or get on your way so many verses and so very few hrymes so many personalities and suck little time so many bigs for attention that go way too far it's not my problem if you don't know who you are that smile won't replace the character you lack are you feeling all neglected 'cause you're always stuck in back well tomorrow is another day another face another brank new you what king of clothes are you gonna wear today and how should you cut your hair maybe you can dish a little gossip to the kids but how's it gonna fell when you find out no one cares

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/