

Compulsions (Re/Worked)

Funker Vogt

The dreams still come and go
Lying wounded on a beach
With shrapnel in my leg
My only weapon is a knife And there is this golden fluid
A bag full of tiny bottles
It's a promise for relief
The key for my survival So I feel, yes I feel the need
To lock myself up in a room
Squirt some morphine into my veins
To leave this cruel world for a while And when I close my eyes
I find myself somewhere else
In a world built on illusions
Where compulsions are expelled Out of a need I had to use it
Although I never thought I would
And before I was aware
This need was present every day A golden mirror for my soul
Will be injected through a syringe
Slowly creeping up my vein
To hit the center of myself

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>