

Stronger

Seabird

Well, she sings her song with beautiful grace
She turns around and you see her face
But you can't move and you can't breathe
You just stand and dream of her 'Cause tonight, she's so much stronger than before
You can't ignore her tonight
And her eyes are shining like the moon
You gotta tell her soon Well, sixteen years, they came and went
My love was strong, but couldn't be bent
But the only thing that would bring a song
Was the love we stole so long ago 'Cause tonight, she's so much stronger than before
You can't ignore her tonight
And her eyes are shining like the moon
You gotta tell her soon
And you waited your life for this moment
She asks for your heart, now you've shown it So hold, hold on to me
And run, run back to me 'Cause tonight, she is so much stronger than before
You can't ignore her tonight (She is so much stronger)
