You Win Some

The Rifles

You can't fight the time
It will only run away
But a time will turn around
Time has won another dayBut you can't have the world
You couldn't take the weight, anyway
And everything we are, it only matters for today[Chorus]And yesterday is over and it won't be back again
But there's beauty in tomorrow
If it means that I can change and I can changeAnd the hole that's in our hearts
It may never be replaced
We can only make a start
And learn to live with the remainsBut you can't take the love
Only give your love away these days
So open up your heart
And let come what may
And you'll win someday[Chorus]But yesterday is over and it won't be back again
But there's beauty in tomorrow
If it means that I can changeAnd there is no greater substitute for going through the pain
And all the things we've never done don't matter none
Only how we play the gameYou win some somedays [x8]

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/