Storm Winds

Shadows Fall

Fighting to control my mind But tragedy is all I findThe panic builds up from deep within The subconscious mind Always thought that the pain would end With the passage of timeNo matter how many layers deep You try to hide yourself They will all crack and peal away To reveal something elseFrom the past we must break free Come to terms with all that tortures meTragic memories invade Let the storm winds wash them all awayI will be the only one who is left to decide There will be no more room that is left for compromise Break away from the curse of man's original sin Turn away as you stay hidden behind a twisted grinFrom the past we must break free Come to terms with all that tortures meTragic memories invade Let the storm winds wash them all away Purified, I stand before the flames As the ashes cover yesterdayImprisoned by actions of the past No use holding on Tragic memories invade Let the storm winds wash them all away Purified, I stand before the flames As the ashes cover yesterday

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/