Put on Your Red Dress

Martin Page

Over the railway lines
Under the bridge where we met first time
I'm comin' across town
Walkin' to your houseYesterday weighs you down
Oh, lonely girl, won't you come on out?
I swear, it'll be alright
On this holy nightPut on your red dress, baby
And wear your smile
Say goodnight to your sister
We're gonna walk for miles
We'll go where the boats are leavin'
In St.George's bayAnd when I look into your eyes
There's one thing that I can say
No one loves you this way
So put on your red dress baby
And one more time let me see you smile
See you smile tonightThere's the abandoned train
Where we sheltered from the rain
Somehow I knew someday
We'd come here againPut on your red dress, baby
And wear your smile
Say goodnight to your sister
We're gonna walk for miles
We'll go where the boats are leavin'
In St.George's bayAnd when I look into your eyes
There's one thing that I can say
No one loves you this way
So put on your red dress baby
And one more time let me see you smileSee the candles burnin' on the Saturday night over rainy town
All over rainy town, see them smile tonightHere on this empty road
We stare at ourselves in a shop window
Funny we seem so right
On this holy nightSo put on your red dress, baby
And wear your smile
Close the door right behind you
Gonna walk for miles
We'll go where the boats are leaving
In St.George's bayAnd recall the tenderness
As we sit by the waterside

Oh, I can never forget
That I was the man who let you
Slip out of his life
So put on your red dress, baby
And let me one more time
Make you smile tonightSee the candles burnin' on the Saturday night
Oh, see the candles burnin' on the Saturday nightPut on your red dress, come out and wear your smile
Put on your red dress
Put on your red dress, come out and wear your smile
Put on your red dress, come out and wear your smile

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/