

Silence

Claire Voyant

How worn we were on such a day
You can almost feel the date
And I can't deny the pain
So I wait for the right time
To wish the world away
To walk inAnd I can't help wanting every word
To escape this nightWe are worn and we dress on Sunday
Try to touch the smile
And I can't describe your face
So I wait for the next time
To wish the world away
And walk inAnd I can't help wanting every word
To escape this night
And with your eyes
You can't help watching everywhere
Before it begins
You can break this silence, oh, with your heartHere we take this vow and you struggle
Invitation to the other
I will come forsake the others
I'll see you againAnd you can't help wanting every word
We can escape this night
And with your arms you can't help wanting everywhere
Before it begins you can break this silence with your heart
