

Movin' On

Muscadine Bloodline

If you can walk in the door of that bar
And not wonder where they are
If you can run in to one of their friends
Without asking how they've been The memories all over that town
Finally ain't tearing you down No more drinking alone, staring at that phone
Drive by their house and don't care if they're home
One day you wake up, the hurt ain't as strong
Maybe, maybe, maybe you're just moving on
If it's true the sound of their name
Doesn't faze you or shake you up
And if it's true the side of the bed
Where they slept ain't as cold
Baby, you're getting over them Drinking alone, staring at that phone
Drive by their house and don't care if they're home
One day you wake up, the hurt ain't as strong
Maybe, maybe, maybe you're just moving on The memories all over that town
Finally ain't tearing you down No more drinking alone, staring at that phone
Drive by their house and don't care if they're home
One day you wake up, the hurt ain't as strong
Maybe, maybe, maybe...
You ain't drinking alone, staring at that phone
Drive by their house and don't care if they're home
One day you wake up, the hurt ain't as strong
Maybe, maybe, maybe you're just moving on Oh, maybe you're just moving on Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>