

Mama's Dress

Kim Beggs

Mamaâ€™s Dress
written by Kim Beggs
from album Blue Bones

John Raham - drums
Keith Lowe â€“ double bass
Steve Dawson â€“ electric slide guitar, mellotron, National Style-O Chris Gestrin â€“ organ
Laurie Lewis - harmony
Kim Beggs â€“ guitar, vocal

Wearing Mamaâ€™s dress out on the corner
Flowers are wrinkled, buttons are broken
The dust from the road and the wind, make her blue
For the sun wants to fade her memoryâ€™s tattoo

Aching and spinning in back of her mask
Her eyes far away and with no voice to ask
Of faith that has drained from the hole in her heart
Where Mama and Papa, from this world, departed
Mama and Papa

And now the whole world passes by Papa no longer can light up in her darkness

Sheâ€™s flying, sheâ€™s falling with a limp in her wing
Her ebb and her flow donâ€™t know what to sing her Asleep on the street bench, itâ€™s rain or itâ€™s cold
She dreams of fresh flowers and buttons of gold
Flowers, Mamaâ€™s dresses, and promises gold
