My Annabelle Lee

Wayne Raney

Was the cold freezing rain,
And the wind so free,
That chilled and killed my Annabelle Lee,
Now the lonesome wind comes back to say,
I took your love away.

Their is no one to love,
At the end of the day,
No one to drive my blues away,
And the wind seems happy and it seems so gay,
Cause it stole my love away.

Their is no one left,
But my dog and me,
And our only home is the lone willow tree,
Each night when he howls he seems to say,
Why did she go away.

I will stay here and mourn,
Through the rain and the storm,
And I'll promise that i'll never go away,
Till the wind has mercy on my Annabelle Lee,
And brings her back to me.

Was the cold freezing rain,
And the wind so free,
That chilled and killed my Annabelle Lee,
Now the lonesome wind comes back to say,
I took your love away.

Lyrics submitted by Jud.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/