THE UNIVERSE INSIDE

Ben Lee

Have you ever caught a glimpse of your reflection in the mirror
And wondered if the person that you saw was even you
Everyone applauding, it's the perfect presentation
Nobody would ever have a clueHave you ever closed your eyes and tried to listen to your heartbeat
It takes you to a place that seems so vast you can't ignore
And all they ever see is only part of the equation
Don't they realize you're so much moreThere's a universe inside
Which no one else can see
A world inside
Where I'm alone with me
You can spend a lifetime looking deep in someone's eyes
And never see the universe inside
We live our lives unscreened, we pass like strangers undetected
Buying things we do not need to cure a sickness we don't have
And underneath it all there lies a beauty unsuspected
Revealed for just a moment when we laughI'm scared to show what's underneath, I cover it with makeup
Bravery, bravado and the need to be the best
If I showed them what I'm hiding would I handle the rejection
Stepping to the light that I possessThere's a universe inside
Which no one else can see
A world inside
Where I'm alone with me
You can spend a lifetime looking deep in someone's eyes
And never see the universe inside
And as we walk each other home
The terror of the great unknown
Just wish that we could see each other shining
That we would never have to be afraid of nightmares or our dreams
And if you want me you know where to find meIn the universe inside
'Cause you must have one too
A world inside
That no one ever knew
I wish I'd noticed but I never took the time
To look beyond the surface and finally see the universe inside
You
Inside
YouHave you ever caught a glimpse of your reflection in the mirror
And wondered if the person that you saw was even you
Everyone applauding, it's the perfect presentation

Nobody would ever have a clueThere's a universe inside
That no one ever sees
A world inside
Where I'm alone with me
I hope that someday someone looks inside my eyes
And finally sees the universe inside
