Furry Skin

Boho Dancer

He took me to his house in the forest
Showed me there a fountain so rich
All the mysterious thoughts I do not understand
Swim so vividly down there
I saw a deer drowning and I screamed
He told me it reminded him of me

You're not innocent anymore, though you try
You're not blind anymore so you walk in the shadows
Then how can I bear this furry skin that you give me
Will I ever run freely, without a bitter mind

I lay down my shoes and I ran,
He looked down, he barely moved a bone
All the splinters on the ground made my feet bleed heavely
Furious my mind and unsecure my eyes
Come come dear deer, take it you can't leave it he nursed my feet, and took my to my sleep

I'm not innocent anymore, though I'd tried
I'm not blind anymore, I have walked in the shadows
And I will bear this fury skin that you give me
Running even more freely, without a bitter mind
