

Endorsement

Boy Sets Fire

I create my own
I no longer revolve around your resentment
I can smell the hatred behind your tearing sneer
I am no longer threatened by this judgment throne
Lies, dead, stagnant, change, forgetting one more day
I could really care less about your lame confinement
My ego's not worth saving when true change is not met
Forgetting one last day, I can't understand
But I feel this rage is spreading on inside me
You tread on me like you have before
My body is broke but my soul's unbowed
Your laughter fuels a will to move inside of me that I've never felt Standing, grabbing ground, your faces all drown out
I can't understand but I can't stop forward moving
I won't be pulled down anymore
This is all I have no matter what scorn
