

Lithium and a Lover

Sirenia

When all my demons set their sails and my mind is riding the last train Down a one-way track to the final station Destination Devastation A thousand demons at my door screaming at my crumbling walls My river's bleeding, my fields are burning My world has stopped turning I will be your lithium and I'll be your lover Give me something for my mind something for the pain inside A remedy, a cure for life
An elixir for this mania of mine
