Impostor

Red

It's coming undone, this world that I made
I feel it descending now
The place that I run, or what I run from
The boundary begins to fadeEvery word's a trap to your lies
Every life you try to save dies
You hold the truth like a knife
You couldn't leave it behindYou're my impostor
I'm a shadow lost deep insideNow how does it feel, as you crawl away
The damage you left for me
I drink from your gaze, a new masquerade
I feel your disease growingYou need a villain to save
You left me here in my grave
You came and took it away
This innocence that I cannot replaceTell me that you were never real
You need another soul to steal
You're my impostor
You tell me you were never really realImpostor, my impostor
Impostor, impostorTell me that you were never real
You need another soul to steal
You're my impostor
You tell me you were never really real
