

Sitting By the Stream

Arid Zone Avenues

When I saw you sitting by the stream the scene was just so captivating Your eyes were dancing their deep forest green
When I saw you it was like a dream with your hair softly gliding in the breeze And all I was doing was simply noticing from so far away
There is something to love about you at least I believe its true Before I met you sitting so serene I was so insecure anyone who wanted to could walk right through my broken door Yes its true anyone who wanted to anyone, anyone who had the fancy My fortress walls were like an invitation for my own personal invasion Theyd come and go in and out so freely but I couldnt follow no not so easily You were oh so stoically sincere that was soon made abdominally clear I could not have made a better choice then get that gumption and work and use my voice And even if all we did was talk Your open outreach and my shell began to crack That is worth more than words can say but I will try to say them anyway Ooo ooo
Your face and soul are beautiful Ooo ooo ooo ooo ooo ooo Oooo ooo
Your face and soul are beautiful
Ooo ooo ooo
Ooo ooo ooo
Uh-huh Uh - huh
Uh-huh I couldnt have known just what to say somehow I said it anyway
You reached out and helped me to stand Oooo You helped me to see I can be better than me
You helped me to see that I can be better
You helped me to see I can be better than me

That is worth more than I can say

You helped me to see

You helped me to see
