Reach Out

Bethany Dillon

No one knows what is hurting inside me
But I feel it in every breath
So many have promised to heal me
Till my money and hope was spent
And I am hiding in this crowd
He may be just beyond my grasp
But if I just reach out, if I just reach out
Just for a moment, could everything change
I reach out, if I just reach out
For the hem of His garment, could everything change
Worry is the water rising
And it's flooding up to my neck
I've nothing to lose but can I believe
These broken years are in my past
Then eyes like fire and warm like the breeze
Turn and meet mine
Oh, if I just reach out, if I just reach out
Just for a moment, could everything change
I reach out, if I just reach out
For the hem of His garment, could everything change
I feel like something has changed
I feel like something has changed
I feel like something has changed
I feel like something has changed
I feel like something has changed
I feel like something has changed
I know I, I felt something change, I
I just reached out, I just reached out
Just for a moment and everything changed
I reached out, I just reached out
For the hem of His garment and everything changed
I reached out, I just reached out
Just for a moment and everything changed
I reached out, I just reached out
For the hem of His garment and everything changed
Oh, everything changed
