

Maybe

Casey McQuillen

I just stand there as you look right through me
I stop breathing but you just don't see
I'm just wishing that I could be your dream
I'd be all you want 'cause you're all I'll ever need

And I know I should just move on
You'll never know where you belong
And I know that you've had your time
That there are other guys but

If you told me that you're loving me, well maybe
If you told me that you couldn't breathe, well maybe
If you told me that you love my smile, sorry that it took a while,
I might let you save me
Just maybe

I was trying to get your out of my dreams
It's going well, until I fell asleep
To a world where you're loving me
And I am all you want 'cause you're all I'll ever need

And I know I should just move on
You'll never know where you belong
And I know that you've had your time
That there are other guys but

If you told me that you're loving me, well maybe
If you told me that you couldn't breathe, well maybe
If you told me that you love my smile, sorry that it took a while,
I might let you save me
Just maybe

But as the moonlight breaks
It's all my heart can take
To have to live my days without you, without you

You never told me you were loving me
You never told me that you couldn't breathe
You never said you loved my smile
Never found me that worth while

I should just let go
But just so you know

If you told me that you're loving me, well maybe
If you told me that you couldn't breathe, well maybe
If you told me that you love my smile, sorry that it took a while,
I might let you save me
Just maybe
