

The Ghost Town

Danger Silent

Now we all gotta shout!
were wearing down
where is our freedom?
and we wont bow down
till it all falls down
our hearts are beating
it's a rule of thumb,
that we can't run
this sights misleading
we will sow inside to open up our eyes
and see.

when I fallen down,
this life around's too much to take it.
I have a feeling I will be the one that will be taken.
It seems a line that can't be bent but only broken you suspend your deepest thoughts until you're shakin' but I-I won't believe that your here to stay.

Now we all gotta shout!
were wearing down
where is our freedom?
and we wont bow down
till it all falls down
our hearts are beating
it's a rule of thumb,
that we can't run
this sights misleading
we will sow inside to open up our eyes
and see

You see shape of things to come, but you won't fit in.
You warm up slowly
to the sound of heaven's maker.
you feel a tidal happiness is coming.
Which couldn't be more from the truth than your expressions.

Just open your mouth,
and taste the air that you breathe.

We won't bow down.
We won't bow down.
till it all falls down
we won't bow down

And Christ can see everything, and god plays deity
the son comes to get it Now that's the end

Now we all gotta shout!
were wearing down
where is our freedom?
and we wont bow down
till it all falls down
our hearts are beating
it's a rule of thumb,
that we can't run
this sights misleading
we will sow inside to open up our eyes
and see

We must see the truth!
our time is drawing
near the end of tides!

Lyrics Submitted by Diego Z

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>