If I Should Fall

Vanessa Littrell

If I should fall, will you catch me
Before I hit the rocks, down below
By the shore, at the waterâ€™s edge?

Fields wet, and I on the crest
Looking over the cliff
Like the birds circling, I know that I exist
For more than this, for more than this

Streets wet, and I behind the wheel
Feel Iâ€™m slipping towards the curb
The appeal of the ordinary, suffocates the will Billowing, in the wind, try to lift me off the ground
Am I content, to pretend, that Iâ€™m suffering to grow
This I know, this I know

Music Bridge
(oooo, ada-aye)

Crow stops, and I stop, the wind stops
And all I hear are waves
Crashing loud, down below
And they beckon to my soul, to my soul
This I know, this I know

If I should fall, will you catch me
Before I hit the rocks, down below
By the shore, at the waterâ€™s edge?
