Waterfallin'

drumfish

If its pain that youre after
If its pain that you need
Then wont you take down something for me
Before you go and bleed yourselfNothing in particular
Something you should keep in mind
A collection of feelings
That hits your soul like wineBlissful inebriation
Head splitting recuperation
Escape for a small while
But leaves a bad taste in your mouthIts not something that I mean to say
It just pours out like waterfallin
Its not something that I can relate
I can hear your body calling
Its not something that I mean to say
It just pours out like watefallinWell its easy as you make it
But its harder than hell
To do the things you know you should
To make your life wellIf you can answer the question
You can take the exam
Though its more to do with what is you
And it can slip away like sandWell its years of acquisition
And its much lost to decay
Two steps forth and one step backs
Better than the other wayIts not something that I mean to say
It just pours out like waterfallin
Its not something that I can relate
I can hear your body calling
Its not something that I mean to say
It just pours out like watefallinIts maybe something from within me
Maybe something from without
It seems the forces which may move me
I may seem to live withoutIts not the answer to your question
But the questions all you need
The asking frames our humanity
And in this way we proceedIts not something that I mean to say
It just pours out like waterfallin
Its not something that I can relate
I can hear your body calling
Its not something that I mean to say

It just pours out like watefallin
