Island

Stavesacre

this to say the things too hard to say you know my way it's just my wayrestless, tense, and shifting in my seat changing times fight bottom lines fight dreams and darlin' you won't hear my voice tonight even that is held just out of reachi know... no one sees us making this i feel it, and see it in their eyes but i won't lose sleep, if when they see you they don't see mei won't mind all i've seen and known i would make ours but for each thing that blesses, more leave scars i found some softness in a world this hard but if you should wake one day to find baby, we could just stay home tonight if you should need to leave my sideyou'd leave a better man behind you don't see yourself as mine if you should wake one day to find you don't see yourself as mine...for just another soul that's come in from the cold like and island in a sea of failing coals seeking shelter from the coming storms a fire that never dies before it's growni know, that no one sees us making this i feel it, and see it in their eyes... but i won't lose sleep, if when they see you they can't see me i won't mind... if you should need to leave my side
you don't see yourself as mine
but if you should wake one day to find
you'd leave a better man behind
if you should wake one day to find
if you should need to leave my side...
you don't see yourself as mine
you'd leave a better man behind

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/