Of Dust & Matter

Lanterns on the Lake

I'm spitting out the dust
For all of us
But I keep the best inside
And I swear on the North
It was the Devil I saw
Where matter matters most
In my greatness I vowed
To destroy all I am
It brings out the best in meLast night I passed out on the kitchen floor
With a drink in my hand
And a song in my heart
And I didn't want for more
No, I didn't want for more
When last night I passed out on the kitchen floor
It's creatures like us
Who cut through the dust
In a town void of life
And they're sewing us notes
In the hem of our clothes
But I'll keep the subject lightSo, last night I passed out on the kitchen floor
With a drink in my hand
And a song in my heart
And I didn't want for more
No, I didn't want for more
When last night I passed out on the kitchen floor
Last week I woke up in the road
The street was calm
And the air was still
And it felt like home
Just like last night when I passed out on the kitchen floor
