Arms Of A Woman

Matthew Morrison

I am at ease in the arms of a woman
Although now, most of my days I spend alone
Thousand miles, place I was born
When she wakes me, she takes me back homeNow, most days, I spend like a child
Who's afraid of ghosts in my mind
I know there ain't nothin' out there
I'm still afraid to turn on the lightsI am at ease in the arms of a woman
Although now, most of my days I spend alone
A thousand miles, place I was born
When she wakes me, she takes me back homeA thousand miles, place I was born
When she wakes me, she takes me back homeI am at ease in the arms of a woman
Although now, most of my days I spend alone
A thousand miles, place I was bornWhen she wakes me, she takes me
Ya, when she wakes me, she takes me
Ya, when she wakes me, she takes me back home
When she wakes me, she takes me back home
