

New York

Ed Sheeran

Five drinks in a Friday night
We only came to dry your eyes
And get you out of your room
Now this bar has closed its doors
I found my hand's holding yours
Do you wanna go home so soon? Or maybe we should take a ride through the night
And sing along to every song that's on the radio
In the back of the taxi cab in Brooklyn, no, no, no
Sun can rise burning all the street lamps out
3 AM, so DJ, play it again Until the night turns into morning
You'll be in my arms
And we'll just keep driving
Along the boulevard
And if I kissed you darling
Please don't be alarmed
It's just the start of everything if you want
A new love, in New York Yesterday gave me a call
Stressing out about it all
The world is moving too fast
But you don't know where to begin
'Cause you've spent a lifetime fitting in
Only to wind out on the other side By yourself, and everyday
Screaming out to all the people that you used to know
From the window that looks upon the Manhattan skyline
It's just the way that life goes
And you hear it in every song you know
So DJ, play it again Until the night turns into morning
You'll be in my arms
And we'll just keep driving
Along the boulevard
And if I kissed you darling
Please don't be alarmed
It's just the start of everything if you want
A new life, in New York And every song that plays
It's just like the day you had
And it's okay to cry
But I'm saying maybe that's a waste of water
You know I'm here for you
In the back of the taxi cab tonight In New York, it's just reached the morning

And you're still in my arms
And we stopped driving down the boulevard
And I just kissed you darling
I hope you weren't alarmed
It's just the start of everything that you want
A new love, in New York
