Fuel

Cataract

I won't give in, I won't back down No matter what you say my heart carries the truth Whatever you say fuels my engine And every action you take is the pavement I walk on There's only one truth I carry with me No one else can see No one can take it from me Take it from me I won't give in I won't give in Everyone can doubt about your actions, beliefs and thoughts. They can try to hold you back and try to put you down referring to them. What they fear is what they know you are able to achieve, so they won't let you do it. They can doubt about your goals because they don't understand what motivation you have. But there is no one that can doubt about the pure strength of your will and your heart. It is your pathfinder and the only thing they can't take away. We won't give in.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/