

The End of Me

Berman

turn and lock the room never be found again a voice like a stranger and all out of anger and i know you feel it to pass away the old lay to rest my friend
pass away the old this will be the end this will be the end of me i will start again
i will start again with you this is where it ends a shadow's all that's left it's always been stronger it's always been longer
i will start again with you this will be the end
i will start again with you
