

Faultline (Homebake Festival 1996)

Silverchair

Unexpected brother
Doesn't know what to do
When everything just falls to the ground oh
He runs to find some cover
He doesn't have a clue
That his friend will never be found
When he's informed that he
Will never see the boy
Will never see the boy
You'll never see him open his eyes
We'll never see the boy
Never see the boy
You'll only hear his heavenly cries Oh yeah oh oh oh Thinking of the past,
It's all over now,
Mother nature's struck once again,
It happened oh so fast,
Now the question's how,
How could they let that building descend Oh, yeah, oh You will never see the boy,
You will never see the boy,
You will never see him open his eyes,
You will never see the boy,
Never see the boy,
You'll only hear his heavenly cries Oh, yeah, oh, oh, oh,
Yeah, no no never, no oh After your life, I leave, I'm dead,
Leading me off through the night,
If he's born again, I need you to find,
Need you to find, where he is.

Songwriters

JOHNS, DANIEL / GILLIES, BEN Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC, Kobalt Music Publishing Ltd. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>