

The Love Letter Collection

Jamie's Elsewhere

Close your eyes, don't fall to pieces
Bad luck has never been the safest foot to start with
But what else could I do?
It's natural for us to think that this could never be the same
So throw it all away for all our insecurities, it's alright
Hold your breath and wait for sunrise
You seem to try to find your worries in the way I hold my own
So close your eyes and count back to five
You always try to dry your perfect tears
And my shoulder's just too close
Baby, I can't, I can't just fight myself alone
It's gotta be, it's gotta be the truth
There must be a way to get through to you
Before it is, before it is too late
This has such a bitter taste
Although we, we are the same
You fell in love but I never felt the same
So throw it all away for all our insecurities, it's alright
Hold your breath and wait for sunrise
You seem to try to find your worries in the way I hold my own
So close your eyes and count back to five
You always try to dry your perfect tears
And my shoulder's just too close
Follow your lines, don't stray from the script
So I won't bleed for nothing and you can't take it back
Now I'm telling the truth, you asked for it
Hold your breath and wait for sunrise
You seem to try to find your worries in the way I hold my own
So close your eyes and count back to five
You always try to dry your perfect tears
And my shoulder's just too close

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>