

Everything

Parachute

Tangled up like streets below us
New York to AM
Rain is falling, sirens wailing
Lying on your bed
You asked me how I feel and its really no big deal You're only everything
You're only everything
You're only everything to me Union square on Sunday morning
Wind wakes up the trees
I can't help but stare and wonder
How you fell for me
It's too much to explain
But believe me when I say You're only everything
You're only everything
You're only everything to me Every now and then I tend to fall apart
Play my worried mind
Play my skittish heart
But every kiss from you feels like I'm coming home
To a place I've never known
But where I belong You're only everything
You're only everything
You're only everything to me
Everything to me
You're only everything
I said you're only everything
You're only everything to me
To me
