You Could've Had Me

Lace

I saw you again last night at the Sunset Grill
But you didn't see me
You looked so happy with that friend
You said was just a friendMaybe you changed your mind
About all that space you needed desperately
Or maybe you lied and never meant itOne day you'll see
That you could've had me, could've had me, yeah
You'll wake up all alone and be sorryI'm spending lots of time reading
All those books that just sat on my shelf
Calling up friends who haven't heard from me
In quite a whileI'm learning lots of things about life and love
And liking myself
Finally getting by without youOne day you'll see
That you could've had me, could've had me, yeah
You'll wake up and notice something is missing
Oh, yeahBut I'll be free
And you could've had me, could've had me, yeah
You could had me to yourself
All to yourselfWhat's done is done and life goes on
But it's such a shame that you couldn't see
It could've been you, it could've been you and meOne day you'll see
That you could've had me, could've had me, baby
You'll wake up and notice something is missingWhen you wake up I'll be free
And you could've had me, could've had me, yeah
You could've had me to yourselfI saw you again last night at the Sunset Grill
But you didn't see, didn't see
Could've had, could've had me
