

What It's Worth (instrumental)

Engineers

So you take something that you have to say and you throw some part of your love away
Then be naive, thinking that your luck has changed
It won't stop here, staking all you knew
Dismiss your one great fear inside
but don't deny your history.
Tell me what you want to see
I'm never going back for what it's worth
Now you wake and stifle words you have to say and you know someone took your trust away
Can you be clear? Thinking got the best of you Just what do you fear? Being someone new Dismiss your one great fear inside
but don't deny your history.
Tell me what you want to see
I'm never going back for what it's worth
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>