Everything To Lose

Trapt

So is it true?
Are they better than you?
Are you playing it cool?
Lips sealed, holding back the truth
So hard to make it through
That past always catches up with you
So afraid of what you'll do
When no one's there to help you choose
And if you ever decide to speak the truth now
When they cast the first stones
They will cast them at you
They will cast them at you
Alone in a crowded room
Forever beaming out at you
Laid down so they can dance all over you
You only have everything to lose
At home, it all casts you
And that mask you wear is wearing you
You've found a new romance
You only have everything to lose
A certain charm
You do not possess
I know you can't confess
Who feels sick of your distress
Some things will never change
Deep under the ground, you'll make your way
The choice has just been made
Sit back and fucking pray
And if you ever decide to speak the truth now
When they cast the first stones
They will cast them at you
They will cast them at you
Alone in a crowded room
Forever beaming out at you
Laid down, so they can dance all over you
You only have everything to lose
At home it all casts you
And that mask you wear is wearing you
You've found a new romance

You only have everything to lose
Everything to lose
When they cast the first stones
When they cast the first stones
They will cast them at you
They will cast them at you
They will cast them at you
Cast them at you
Alone in a crowded room
Forever beaming out at you
Laid down, so they can dance all over you
You only have everything to lose
At home it all casts you
And that mask you wear is wearing you
You've found a new romance
You only have everything to lose
Everything to lose
Everything to lose

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/