

The Runaway

Pillar

Six o'clock on Friday
You thought you heard a little voice try to say
Time is running out
So why you looking out for yourself
Later on a Sunday
You're looking for a little bit of leeway
You say I'll give it a try but
I don't got the time for you now
I tried to figure you out
I tried to figure you out
There's just no telling why
Why you wanna run away?
I think maybe you should stay right here
Maybe you'll appreciate all that He's done for you
And all He has for you, it's all you wanted
9am on Monday
You hear a little voice again trying to say
What's it gonna take
How am I gonna break you down
You say it was bad day

Well, maybe it was just a bad mistake
Don't give up and quit
Make the best of it right now
I tried to figure you out
I tried to figure you out
There's just no telling why
Why you wanna run away?
I think maybe you should stay right here
Maybe you'll appreciate all that He's done for you
And all He has for you, all that He's done for you
And all He has for you, it's all you wanted
It's all you ever wanted
I tried to figure you out
I tried to figure you out
There's just no telling why
Why you wanna run away?
I think maybe you should stay right here
Maybe you'll appreciate all that He's done for you

And all He has for you, all that He's done for you
And all He has for you, it's all you ever wanted

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>