Walking Home With You

Tree63

Here is the sun to light your day
Here is an answer when you pray
Here is the dry road through the sea
What more could you ever want from me?Written directions to my home
A promise you'll never be alone
Here is a lamp unto your feet
What more could you ever want from me?And when you fall I'll wait
I am always awake
All of your days I'm walking home with youMy body bruised and broken down
Precious blood spilled on the ground
I paid for your life up on that tree
What more could you ever want from me?And when you fall I'll wait
I am always awake
All of your days I'm walking home with youAnd until that day you stand
Here in my arms, here's my hand
All of your life I'm walking home with you
With you, yeahAnd when you fall I'll wait
I am always awake
All of your days I'm walking home with youAnd until that day you stand
Here in my arms, here's my hand
All of your life I'm walking home with youHome with you, home with you, yeah
I promise you, I'm, I'm walking home with you
