

Golden Age of the Lowland

Mikko Joensuu

Oh my dear God I don't know where is the place i should go I've buried my soul deep in the pure white snow I've been medicating myself so long to a point where my memories are gone But you'd be surprised how time out of mind will pass on Even Jesus came down here for you but he's banished from the land that he used to rule He must have some better things to do than trying to understand the pain I went through for the golden age of the lowlands the golden hour is finally at hand golden age of the lowlands

I owe some money around but they never make me feel bad i just get on my knees and say mister please give me time There's a hurricane heading my way you could have told me about yesterday it's the price that you pay for making me feel this way Even death came around to see me it was striking with words and convinced me to see the place I might end up real soon but he don't understand the pain I went through
for the golden age of the lowlands
the golden hour is finally at hand
golden age of the lowlands
I don't feel no regret in this land

Lyrics Submitted by Jora Vaso

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>