

Taylor John

Kelly Joe Phelps

Taylor had a wife, she was married to the mirror
Make her glass-eyed lover buy a drink and then another round
'Round the kitchen table lined with cigarettes from years ago

Last night one fell onto the floor, yeah, to the floor, yeah, to the floorTaylor used to marvel at the way the music sounded

She drifted down the carpet-bag to put another lamp shade on
There she was so young and pretty holding out her hand

To the last five years that livin' took away, away, hey, yeah, hey, yeahIt's a scavenger hunt in the best of times
A one-armed man with a box of dimes
Throw the stick and let the bulldog roll

Yeah, throw the stick and let the bulldog rollTaylor's 37 yesterday and she'll be 21
An asphalt rhododendron where she fell across the car
Pocketbook explodin' with the money of delusion

Winks her smokin' yellowed eyes and rolls snakes along the floor
Hey, hey, hmm, yeah, along the floorIt's a scavenger hunt in the best of times
A one-armed man with a box of dimes
Throw the stick and let the bulldog roll

Throw the stick and let the bulldog roll, yeahPartin' like tomorrow is a vestibule of commerce
"No regret", says I, says she, "Waltzin' to the ice machine"
Where another hotel key has left a scar upon the soul
Her feet are nimble still when she wants she can go

Hey, yeah, she can go, hey, hey, yes, she can goIt's a scavenger hunt in the best of times
A one-armed man with a box of dimes
Throw the stick and let the bulldog roll

Throw the stick and let the bulldog roll, oh, yeah, oh, yeahCome all you little sailors with a penchant for the sea
Look way down below for Taylor John he wants to be like me

Drownin' in the water, got his collar turned up cool
Tries to breathe now like a wretched stain and floats like a fool
Hey, hey, hey, hey, hey, hey, heyScavenger hunt in the best of times
A one-armed man with a box of dimes
Throw the stick and let the bulldog roll

Throw the stick and let the bulldog roll, yeahThrow the stick and let the bulldog roll
Getting throw the stick and let the bulldog roll
Throw the stick and let the bulldog roll, yeah

Throw the stick and let the bulldog rollThrow the stick and let the bulldog
Throw the stick and let the bulldog roll, yeah
I'll throw the stick and let the bulldog roll
Throw the stick and let the bulldog roll

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlrics.com/>