

Feet of Courage

Nancy Elizabeth

I will jump right in
at the deep end
where my feet won't reach the floor.

there's no place, no man who can keep me constantly even the dust will blow.

i can't rely on things that define
the rolling movement of time.

but i couldn't deny
that I can't let it lie.
i've given myself a try.

'cause I am young,
and I have feet made of courage.
I'll take a dip to see.

'cause I am young,
and I have feet made of courage.
I need no one to tread the water with me.

On the riverbank...
'cause you know that the river moves

heated in flames,
again and again
each time they were burned they were forged.

A cowardly heart
should be treated the same way iron was wrought like this.
