

Buried By the Blues

Black Mountain

Absolved forever, into the darkest shades
Vanished from the light, to the still calling me
Enslaved forever, buried by the blues
Where your wounds like a soldier and let your ghosts run loose
Against the night, you will rise and set your body free
Frontier of light, you deserve to let you body sleep
Away from the static and noise
Exploding waves, you wish you could belong
The piper at the gates, to steal you from the dawn
No suicide could ever change your fate
Fold your hands in reprise, beneath the trembling rain
Against the night, you will rise and set your body free
Frontier of light, you deserve to let you body sleep
Away from the static and noise
Away from the bombs and the war
Away from the static and noise
