

Little Bit of Light

Strange Weather

You said you're not like me
You never drop to your knees
Looking to the sky for a momentary high
You never even try until it's time to say goodbye

I fight for a little bit of light
I believe

I guess we're not dead yet
It's like a loop inside my head
Forest full of trees, I'm awake inside a dream
The dawn is coming on, we agree to disagree

Everybody fights for a little bit of light
I believe

Everybody fights for a little bit of light
I believe

Everybody fights for a little bit of light
I believe

Everybody fights for a little bit of light
I believe

When I woke up, I looked both ways
Got this sentimental feeling I just can't place
(She can't get comfortable)
Well, I'll be damned is this my fate?
Or was she just another lover who leaves no trace?

(She can't get comfortable)

When I woke up, I looked both ways
Got this sentimental feeling I just can't place
(She can't get comfortable)
Well, I'll be damned is this my fate?
Or was she just another lover who leaves no trace?
(She can't get comfortable)

Lyrics Submitted by Brainlet

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>