

Sapphire

Late Night Alumni

The sky's, the sea, and you.

You're all blue.

It's clearly the loneliest color you do.

Take In some oxygen. I lift up your chin open your ears, and let something in.

Sometimes, when blue lights, hide your eyes you look alive.

Disguised, I realize. You're afraid. You're paralyzed.

Sapphire, you're like twilight, gunfire, is that right?

You're still as polished stone, you're alone, but I bet you'd rather not be on your own. For real you're genuine, and I see where you've been, open your head and let someone in.

Sometimes, when blue lights, hide your eyes, you look alive

Disguised, I realize. You're afraid. You're paralyzed.

Sapphire, you're like twilight, gunfire, is that right? Sapphire (A—4)

Sapphire (A—5)

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>