

The Pharaohs

Neko Case

you were married in the mirrored hall when i was 16 you spoke the words, "i love girls in white leather jackets" that was good enough for love, it was good enough for me i listened in when you thought you were alone calling the sphinx on a tornado's phone who knows what she'll say i only heard what i wanted you said i was your blue, blue baby and you were right
you said i was your blue, blue baby
and you were right wandered the halls all the nighttime my body burned, my legs ached but you never came to bed you just left me there awake you kept me wanting wanting wanting like the wanting in the movies and the hymns I want the pharaohs, but there's only men I want the pharaohs, but there's only men you said i was your blue, blue baby
and you were right
you said i was your blue, blue baby
and you were right

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>